The Well hosted an arts-inspired Passover celebration at the Detroit Institute of Arts for a capacity crowd of young adults. Attendees explored the museum's ancient Egypt exhibit, interacted with character actors to learn about the story of the Exodus in a deeper way, created Passover-themed sand art with artist Gail Kaplan and enjoyed music featuring redemption themes by DJ Ben Plum, inspired kosher-for-Passover food by Chef Cari and a tequila tasting by Blue Nectar Tequila.

The "Mi-Mitzrayim Margarita" was the evening's signature beverage. The evening ended with Pharaoh shouting at all those assembled to "Get out!"
